

Jody D. M. Johnson – Associate General Counsel, Director of Litigation, TransCanada Corporation

Jody joined TransCanada in Calgary in July, 2001 in the Litigation, Arbitration and ADR department. Over her fourteen years with the company, Jody has conducted and participated in numerous mediations, arbitrations and lawsuits in defense of and on behalf of TransCanada. Being part of the Litigation, Arbitration and ADR department, she works with a wide variety of business units within the company, including power, pipelines, land, risk, insurance and HR. The nature of the disputes range from complex commercial litigation and arbitration to construction disputes and employee terminations.

Jody came to TransCanada after obtaining her BA at Queen's University and her law degree at McGill University. She articulated and worked at a mid-sized firm in Calgary for three years where she practiced in their litigation group and appeared at numerous court levels, including the Alberta Court of Appeal.
